DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yasui et al. (5248963).

Yasui discloses a liquid crystal display device comprising: pixel electrodes; common electrode; a plurality of data lines and gate lines; plurality of switches; a controller for determining the power supply of the liquid crystal display device is turned off, a signal is outputted to a gate line driver to make all the gate lines active for a predetermined time to erase the display device (see abstract).

Yasui further discloses when the power supply is turning off, various signals provided to the liquid crystal display device stop (col. 2, lines 42-45). These various signals inherently include a horizontal and vertical synchronization signal, and a video signal. Therefore, when the controller detects the power supply is turning off, the controller inherently detects the horizontal or vertical synchronization signal, or a video signal is no longer being input the liquid crystal device.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed January 2, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Yasui inherently teaches detecting at least one of the video signal, and a horizontal and vertical synchronization signal is no longer being input to a liquid crystal device because Yasui teaches when a power supply is turned off, various signals provided to a liquid crystal display device stop (col. 2, lines 42-45). These various signals inherently include a horizontal and vertical synchronization signal, and a video signal. Therefore, when a controller detects the power supply is turning off, the controller inherently detects the horizontal or vertical synchronization signal, or a video signal is no longer being input to the liquid crystal device.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
